the neighbourhood

Founded in Hamilton more than 100 years ago, Starward is a family business, having been passed along four generations of the Campbell family.

Starward has designed and created an impressive collection of distinctive neighbourhoods and exceptional homes and is widely recognized as an innovative industry leader in new community development. Having popularized the bungalow community concept, Starward is considered an expert in building “main-floor living” homes designed for today’s active adult. With an ever-expanding portfolio that includes two and three-storey towns, single family homes and estate lots, Starward Homes’ vision is forged by the commitment to build beautiful communities that resonate with the desires of today and tomorrow’s homebuyer.

Renowned for commitment to superior quality, innovation and integrity, each home is built with an unrivalled attention to detail, carefully designing, building and selecting every included feature to ensure Starward Homes continues to set the bar for excellence as an industry leader.

With such a long history in business, Starward knows that the true test of design, construction and service comes long after the banners and flags are gone.
